Ongoing Repair of Sinkhole at MLK and Herring Ave. May Cause Water Pressure Fluctuations

As the City of Waco is continuing work to repair a large sinkhole at the intersection of Martin Luther King Jr Blvd. and Herring Ave., water pressure fluctuations may be experienced by customers in the affected area. (See attached map)

The beginnings of the collapse were discovered on July 4th weekend, but both water and sewer lines beneath the collapse make the repairs complicated.

A 20 inch main water line, which carries water to north Waco, China Spring, Lacy Lakeview and the City of West, lies directly in the collapsed area. Beneath the water line, there is a major sewer line.

Before excavation of the collapsed area can begin, the water line must be bypassed (rerouted) and moved safely out of the way. Bypassing of the water line is expected to be completed tomorrow and as a precautionary measure, the city is advising customers in the affected area that they may experience fluctuations in water pressure.
