City of Waco to Open Warming Center

WACO, TEXAS (December 20, 2022) – The City of Waco and Waco-McLennan County Office of Emergency Management will open the Sul Ross Community Center (1414 Jefferson Ave.) as a warming center based on the predicted weather forecast.

The Sul Ross Community Center will open Thursday, December 22, at 3 p.m. and remain open through Saturday, December 24, at noon. The center will be available to the public for 24 hours as a warming center to assist residents of Waco-McLennan County in relief from the cold. Cots, blankets, Meals Ready to Eat (MREs), and bottled water will be available. Support workers and security will be on-site for the operations of the center. Pets are accepted as long as they are in a crate.
