American Medical Response to provide 911 Ambulance Service in Waco

Starting August 1, 2018 AMR is the chosen ambulance provider for Waco

(Waco, Texas) — On August 1, 2018, American Medical Response (AMR) will begin providing emergency medical services in Waco and McLennan County, Texas.

AMR was selected as the sole provider for 911 ambulance service for the city of Waco, and surrounding cities as well as McLennan County. The newest AMR operation hired 75 full-time and 23 part-time employees and plans to hire another 15 to 20. AMR will offer basic life support ambulance service, advanced life support ambulance service and bariatric ambulance service.

The new operation anticipates approximately two-thousand 911 emergency and non-emergency transfer calls per month in the area.

“Our goal has always been to provide the highest quality of 911 pre-hospital emergency medical care for our citizens and visitors alike” said Fire Chief Bobby Tatum. “We are confident that AMR will help us to continue to raise the level of emergency care in the city of Waco.”

AMR is the largest provider of ambulance transportation in the United States and has an excellent record of bringing economies of scale to rural communities, providing local jobs, large scale employee support as well as cutting edge technology.

“American Medical Response is excited to be serving Waco and surrounding communities. Our team is committed to providing professional, high-quality medical services to the community,” said Robert Saunders, Regional Director. “As a leader in the medical transportation industry, we bring the value of a local community operation coupled with the stability and support of a national organization.”
